COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course continues a systematic presentation of the Christian faith. Using Biblical constructs, historical developments, and confessional statements, students explore the Doctrine of God, the Doctrine of Humanity, and the Doctrine of Christ. Students should complete ST 601 Systematic Theology I prior to taking this course. Required for M.Div. and M.A.T.S. students. Three hours.

COURSE PURPOSE:

The purpose of this course is to gain an understanding of the basic teachings of the Christian Church and essential concepts of Christian theology. In accord with the seminary's mission statement, one of the goals set for students in this course is that they will be prepared to utilize the Church's historical and theological heritage as an important resource in their personal spiritual development and ministry.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

It is the teacher's intention that by the end of the term, students will be able to:

1. Define key terms and concepts necessary for understanding standard theological literature and engaging in faithfully informed theological conversation.
2. Understand how such terms and concepts relate to Holy Scripture and how they emerged and have developed in the life of the Church.
3. Grasp something of the interconnectedness and beauty of the various doctrines of the Church.

4. Evaluate at least some of the Church's major theological claims in light of the criticisms of voices both within and without the Church and in light of the demands of pastoral ministry in the 21st century.
5. Experience something of the joy and rigor of theological inquiry.

COURSE METHOD:

The purpose and objectives of this course will be achieved through three learning components. The first is the Content Component, the student's familiarity with the vocabulary, themes and concepts of Systematic Theology. This will be accomplished through readings, independent research, class lectures and discussion. Students will demonstrate their familiarity with this material by completing the course requirements as stated below.

The second component is Classroom Participation. A vital exchange of ideas is essential to the process of exploration, and all students are to be prepared for class discussions by completing the assigned readings prior to class. To ensure and gauge such participation, 5 or 6 pop-quizzes will be given throughout the course of the semester.

The third is the Reflective Component. With the first two volumes of Donald Bloesch's Christian Foundations series and John Calvin's Institutes of the Christian Religion as its primary texts, this course invites students to engage in a vigorous, wide-ranging discussion informed by both ancient and modern concerns. An effort will be made in class to relate readings in Bloesch and Calvin, but close, detailed readings in Bloesch will be expected on a week-to-week basis and will be the primary focus of each quiz. However, each student will also be expected to have read Book II of Calvin's Institutes by the end of the semester and will write a paper that demonstrates a sincere and thoughtful effort to integrate insights from the assigned readings in Bloesch and Calvin. Each student will also complete a final examination (May 10).

The paper topic must be approved by the professor and will consist of a clearly stated thesis, antithesis, and synthesis: 1) a comparison of Bloesch and Calvin on a specific point or theme, i.e., a discussion of how and why they appear to agree or disagree about a specific point or theme (thesis); 2) a well-crafted, well-researched, well-documented objection to or qualification of their individual teachings on this particular point or theme (antithesis); 3) and a critical theological evaluation of the objection to or qualification of their teachings on this particular point or theme (synthesis). This paper will be due on May 5.

Requirement Two (25% of total grade): Each student will complete a final exam that will cover material from reading assignments, lectures and classroom discussion. The final exam will be on May 12.

Requirement Three (50% of total grade): Each student will be expected to have read and be able to discuss the reading assignments each week. To ensure and gauge such participation, 5 or 6 “pop-quizzes” will be given throughout the semester. These quizzes will consist of 10 basic questions (and one extra credit question) on the required reading material assigned for that day. The questions will be basic, content-oriented questions that most any attentive reader should be able to answer.
