Research Methodologies

January Term 2012

Thursdays, January 12 and 26, 9 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

I. COURSE DESCRIPTION

This non-credit seminar provides advanced guidance on the tasks of choosing and narrowing a research topic, conducting theological research, using technology in research, analyzing one's findings and articulating their significance, and organizing and writing academic-level theological papers or theses. This course is taught by members of the Bible and Theology departments and by members of the Library staff.

Required for first-year Th.M. students. Open to others. Offered in January. Zero hours.

II. COURSE REQUIREMENTS

1. There will be no written requirements for this non-credit course. Students will show that they have mastered the material of this course by presenting high-quality papers in other courses, and especially by presenting a high-quality Th.M. thesis.

2. Students are required to read the following books thoroughly:

Booth, Wayne G., Gregory G. Colomb, and Joseph M. Williams. The Craft of Research, Third Edition. The University of Chicago Press, 2008. (ISBN 0226065669)

Strunk, William, and E. B. White. The Elements of Style. 50th Anniversary Edition. Longman, 2008. (ISBN 020530902X)

3. Students are expected to be thoroughly familiar with the layout and the contents of the following books, and able to use these books for reference as they write research papers:

Turabian, Kate L. A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations. Revised by Wayne C. Booth et. al. 7th Edition. Chicago: The University of Chicago Press, 2007. (ISBN 0226823377)

Alexander, Patrick H., et al, eds. The SBL Handbook of Style for Ancient Near Eastern, Biblical, and Early Christian Studies. Peabody, Mass.: Hendrickson, 1999. (ISBN 156563487X)
